Day before Symposium on August 8

Please come to the ISE lab between 3:30 and 5 to upload your presentation onto the computer that will be assigned to your room. This is the time to check to make sure your presentation loads correctly and any video and sound bites that you have added to your Power Point actually work. Please remember that even if all technology fails on the day of the event – you are still responsible for presenting your research. Be prepared.

Day of the Symposium on August 9

Arrive at the ISE lab by 8:00 a.m. Stop by the registration table to pick up your nametag and a lunch ticket. Concurrent Oral and Poster Sessions will begin at 8:30 a.m.

As a Scholar, you are expected to be in attendance the whole day. Before and after your session you are free to visit the poster session or other talks. In addition to your talk, your contribution is to help to ensure that all presenters of talks, posters, and exhibits receive good questions and thoughtful responses to their work.

Presenting Your Talk: You are part of a panel and therefore are expected to sit with the other presenters in the first row of the room and to remain present for the entire session. The faculty moderator will introduce each of you and facilitate questions from the audience. The program assistant in the room will assist with technology and keep the session on schedule.

You may wish to use slides or handouts, as appropriate. A computer, speakers and access to PowerPoint and the internet will be provided. If you have other software/hardware requirements contact Judi Smith (jkpsmith@udel.edu).
